Hi Ms. Shanty Halim,

Good afternoon.

We are done with the initial review of your paper entitled, Analysis of Indonesian-English Code Switching Performed by the English Lecturers in PNUP (Politeknik Negeri Ujung Pandang), and the results are:

Plagiarism - 100% original

Grammar – Reviewer made proper correction on grammar (esp tautological mistakes)

Style - used APA 6th Ed.

References – did not use APA 6th Ed. style. Please rewrite.

Word length – 5,690

Content – Please note of the following:

1. Author needs to check the grammar of the entire manuscript. It is suggested that she should have it checked by another person or by herself using a grammar tool e.g Grammarly.
2. Author failed to indicate which research instrument she used in her data analysis.
3. Author failed to indicate that she has an “inter-coder”, a person in charge of translating the Indonesian text to English and validating that the context in Indonesian is still the same in the translated version (author can translate and have someone validate the context of the translation).
4. In the Findings, was author able to check “patterns” in switching codes among the lecturers?
