D Dr. Ajaegbu 3 years ago

Thanks for your response. However, if a Journal is discontinued in Scopus does that mean that the Journal has lost its SCImago ranking? I will appreciate your clear explanation. Thanks reply

Melanie Ortiz 3 years ago

SCImago Team

Dear Dr. Ajaegbu ,
Thank you for contacting us back.
The SJR reflects the data that Scopus sends us annually. The SJR is calculated for the last year, although all the information calculated for previous years can be consulted on our website. Despite the fact that a journal no longer appears in Scopus, as long as SCImago continues to receive data from Scopus related to the Citation Window (necessary to calculate the SJR), the scientometric indicators are still being calculated.
Best Regards,
SCImago Team

A Ajaegbu Chigozirim 3 years ago

D Dr. Ezebuilo Ukwueze 5 years ago

Dear Elena,

My manuscript was accepted in 2016 (February) and I was asked to pay the charge for publication, which I did immediately. I waited for it to be published in vain. The abstract appeared online in Volume 139 No 3, pp. 205-221. Till today, the paper has not been published. I have written to the Editor severally and never received a reply.

The details of the paper is: Ukwueze, E. R. and Okoronkwo, Ndubuisi (2016). Trade Liberalisation, Shocks and Economics Growth in Nigeria, European Journal of Scientific Research, Volume 139 No 3, pp. 205-221, May.

Thanks you.
